Re-enlisting.

The Atlanta Confederacy says that those whose term of service is about expiring so far as we have been able to notice are all re-enlisting for the war.

Soldier's Home.

Congress is about to establish a home for disabled soldiers and intends using the monies paid into the treasury on account of exemptions for that purpose.

Mobile.

An early attack on Mobile is anticipated and our authorities are making the necessary arrangements to meet it.

Terrible Conflagration at Santiago, Chili.

On the 8th ultimo on the last day of the celebration of the feast of the Immaculate Conception at Santiago Chili, the Cathedral was filled to overflowing chiefly women and children to witness the magnificent illumination and participate in the closing exercise. The Cathedral was heavily hung with drapery and lighted with twenty thousand lamps. Not less than three thousand persons were present including the elite of the capitol. Suddenly the gas pipe burst and almost instantly the entire building was in flames. The inmates found it impossible to escape and in less than 15 minutes 2500 persons perished.

Paroled Prisoners.

The War Department has recently rendered an opinion as to the liabilities of paroled prisoners and the character of service that may be lawfully required of them. That decision has been published. They are not to be required to take up arms against the enemy or serve as military police or constabulary force to any fort, garrison or field work, nor not as guards of prisons, depots or stores belonging to the general army now in the field — Yet they may be required to submit to military control in the camps and may be employed for the purpose of organization, discipline and instruction, and for this purpose army may be used. Gen. Polk has issued orders requiring all paroled prisoners, officers and men belonging to the garrisons of Vicksburg or Port Hudson to report for duty at the paroled camp at Enterprise, Miss.

Northern Virginia.

The latest news from the Northern army is, says the Richmond Sentinel, that the Yankees were falling back, after destroying a large amount of property. The jail at the county seat of Westmoreland, in which had been stored a large amount, was burned with its contents. Richmond court house had also been destroyed by fire.

The enemy are said to have landed in Middlesex from gunboats which had ascended the Rappahannock, and destroyed the provisions of the people. They are following the example of Lord Dunmore, in the Revolution, and of Admiral Cockburn &. Ring the last war with Great Britain, and with the like result, exciting the bitter hatred of the people, and branding their names with eternal infamy.

Death of Col. Cluke.

The Atlanta Intelligencer says a dispatch was just been received by Captain Ellsworth, Gen. Morgan's telegraphic operator, containing information of the death of Col. R. S. Cluke, acting Brigadier General in Gen. Morgan's command. This distinguished officer died in the Ohio penitentiary, in a dungeon, in close confinement. The news came to Gen. Morgan by letter sent through a flag of truce by Col. D. Howard Smith, now on parole in the city of Columbus, Ohio. There is no doubt that his death was caused by the harsh treatment he received while in prison, as he was in perfect health at the time of Gen. Morgan's escape. Thus has perished, by Yankee brutality, one of the most gallant officers in the Confederate army.

The Montgomery Mail says, with much truth:

"We speak advisedly and knowingly when we say that the improvidence and wanton abuse of animals belonging to the Confederate States is the reason and the sole reason, for that drain on the horses in the country, which has been going on now for three years to the serious detriment of production and constant outrage of private rights. It is an abuse that calls loudly for reformation."
